ABOUT ME

I'm Hanie, a recent architecture graduate interested in interdisciplinary design. I'm fascinated by how different disciplines and skills can come together to create innovative ideas that enhance human experience and improve the quality of life. Designing satisfies the part of me that loves creation, allowing me to express my character and mindset, while also reflecting culture.
What I value most in design is its problem-solving spirit and how a simple shift in perspective can significantly impact human experience. With my background in architecture, I'm eager to apply my analytical and creative skills to bring fresh perspectives to this field.
